HARTLAND CONSERVATION COMMISSION
1991 Report to the Town

Background
The Conservation Commission was established by the voters at Town Meeting in 1989. Its purposes are summarized as follows: to inventory the Town's natural and cultural resources; to work to protect these resources; to increase awareness of conservation goals; and to cooperate with all levels of government and groups with similar concerns.

Summary of Activities
Nineteen hundred ninety was the first full year of activity for the Commission. We focused on two major projects:

Participation in Planning and Conservation: The Planning and Conservation Commissions received a grant of $7,600 to promote the participation of Hartland residents in planning and conservation issues. The Commissions have sponsored the "Common Ground," a newspaper providing a forum for local opinions on these issues; several public meetings on topics such as land conservation, proposed subdivision regulations, and “cluster” development; and the purchase of equipment and supplies to begin mapping the natural and cultural resources of Hartland.

Green Acres Farm: Thanks to the efforts of many people, the “development rights” to the Green Acres Farm were purchased in 1990. This assures that the land will remain in agricultural use for the foreseeable future. Project participants include the Town of Hartland, the Vermont Housing and Conservation Trust Board and the Department of Agriculture, the Upper Valley Land Trust, and the Nature Conservancy. The Commission raised $10,000 in private donations for this project, under the leadership of Dr. Charles Marrin. Thanks to all who contributed to the project and thanks to the voters at the 1990 Town Meeting for appropriating $5,000 as part of the local match to purchase the development rights.

Commission Meetings and Membership
The Commission meets on the first and third Mondays of each month, in the Listers’ office at Damon Hall. All are welcome to attend. For further information, call Geoff Dates at 436-2544 or Gloria Merritt at 436-2700.
